NEW COTTON PLAN

Caraway and Smith Offer New Proposals To

Strong opposition to the farm board's plan of destroying a third of the standing cotton crop developed today as four governors of southern states

Six replies have been received from the 14 governors to whom the suggestion was addressed in an effort to increase prices. Only Governor Sterling, of Texas, the largest producing of Texas, the largest producing lastate, was said at the board to have agreed to co-operate in the plan. At Houston, however, he denied he had indorsed the proposal and said it would be as reasonable to ask the board to destroy part of its holdings. South Carolina flatly rejected the suggestion to plow under every third row of cotton. Alabama, Georgia, and Florida indorsed the idea of revest of 15,584,000 bales but found themselves unable to accept the board's specific suggestion. Instead, they submitted counter proposals which were not made public.

Tonight, the old steamship Mount Shasta rested at the bottom of the ocean off the Virginia Capes, sent down by coast guard shells after the second attack of bomb-laden army planes had left her still riding the waves, although a bit shaken.

As the army fliers faded into the distance toward Langley field, a former navy tug boat converted into a cutter, the Carrabassett, took up the assault.

Pouring 100-pound shells broadside into the midsection of the old craft, it sent her to the bottom in craft, it sent her to the bottom in 600 feet of water. Her grave was 60 miles southwest of Cape Henry. For an hour the fliers dropped their high-explosive bombs about the obsolete shipping board vessel. Two direct hits were secred, one near the bridge, but when they gave up the attack there was only a slight list as evidence of the destruction planned.

THE FREEDOM OF BUSINESS.

In an éditorial pertinent to how the business depression has affected the railways of the nation, the Railway Age reiterates a fact too much forgotten by the public mind, when it says:

The principal present need of the United States is for its leaders in both public and business life to learn, as their forefathers knew, that, in the long run, the less government there is in business the better it will be for both business and the public.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter.

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

When my cousin Clara's husband was a small boy, the school he attended celebrated some holiday with a picnic.

Billy—that was his name—brought a basket of good things to eat, as the other children did, and joined the others in boisterous play while waiting for the feast.

Evidently he was too boisterous. He tore a little girl's dress. And when the matter was reported to the teacher, Billy was required to walk across town with the little girl at his side and ask his mother to mend the tear. It was a dreadful humiliation and Billy's heart was full of rebellion. He walked back to the school house, but he didn't join the other children.

Instead he sat in the doorway of a barn across the street, watching the others consume fried chicken and cake and such things, and of rage and self-pity and empty of all else. of rage and self-pity and empty of all else. Old-timers described that sort of thing as ROBERT OUILLEN "cutting off your nose to spite your face."

It gets to be a habit. When Billy was 16 and very much in love, the lady of his choice ffended him in some small matter.

There was a merry-go-round in town, and Billy had planned to meet lady in its vicinity after nightfall and make mild 1890 whoopee with others of his age and kind. But he was offended, you will remember, and when Billy was offended he was offended.

He knew his lady was unaware of having given offense. He knew she was waiting for him. He pictured her riding the ponies with other He fairly ached to join her. But he lay face-down on a couch at home, listening to the mournful

I suppose it isn't necessary to point the moral, but I observe that the world contains many people who deny themselves or punish themselves to hurt somebody else. "I am breaking my neck," they say, "and it's all your fault."
It is kid stuff—a silly habit that makes self-pity second nature.

ATLANTAN, 2 OTHERS INDICTED FOR FORGERY

Alleged "Pay Roll Padding" Scheme Uncovered; 19 New True Bills Considered.

Indictments charging forgery, which were returned during July, were revealed for the first time Friday when it became known that 19 new true bills charging use of fictitious checks were being considered by the Fulton county grand jury against W. R. Morris, of Atlanta, and Leonard Sherouse and Fred Skipper, of Jacksonville, Florida.

The July indictments and the draft of those considered Friday by the grano jurors involve an alleged "pay roll padding" scheme by which the trio are alleged to have swindled the Fruit Growers' Express, by which they were employed up to July 16, out of approximately $5,700 over a period of three years.

Sherouse and Skipper are being held in jail in default of bond, while Morris is at liberty under bond of $500 on the July indictment, Assistant Solicitor John H. Hudson said, Mr. Hudson indicated that in event of in-the three men.

Various schemes, Mr. Hudson said, had been used by the three men in working their "pay roll padding" scheme. All were foremen of the Fruit Growers' Express, which has charge of switching and re-icing of freight carloads of perishables. One of the more familiar devices used, it was said, was for the men to obtain negroes and line them up before the pay roll window to answer to certain pay roll window to answer to certain names, receive checks, which, it is al-leged, were indorsed on the spot. Some-times the negroes would be paid a nominal fee for answering the pay roll call, and other times they would roll call, and other times they would receive nothing. The scheme is said to have been in progress since 1928. Discovery of the swindle scheme was said to have been made in July by auditors for the Fruit Growers Express.

Whether the grand jury returned true bills Friday in the fictitious check charges could not be determined, owing to the absence of any superior court judge to whom the bills must be presented.

MANGET ASSAILS KEY AS 'LIQUOR LECTURER'

While Mayor James L. Key, antiprohibitionist. Friday was being praised for his courage in expressing his conviction: regarding the present American liquor system, John A. Manget, president of the Greater Atlanta Prohibition and Law Enforcement Club, seeking Key's recell, scored him as "a liquor law lecturer."

Manget's criticism was predicated on an address Key delivered Thursday before the Chattanooga Rotary Club, in which he favored local option in centrast to the present national prohibition system.

contrast to the present national pro-hibition system.

The club head also addressed a let-ter to Detective Chief A. Lamar Poole accusing two other policemen of the Atlanta department of drunken-ness, but declining to give names or to co-operate as requested by Poole, who followed instructions given Thurs-day night by the police committee of council.

Alvin Richards, chairman of the committee, declined to comment on Manget's lack of co-operation. The latter said the club is not a detective latter said the club is not a detective force. Manget also sent Poole several recall blanks asking him to distribute them to members of the department "who believe they should not be fired from their jobs for drinking while the mayor, an avowed anti-prohibitionist, holds his." Poole declined to comment on the disposition he plans to make of the blanks.

"This was tried as far back as when Jim Key was a boy, and failed everywhere. Old Chattanooga Rotarians remember when their city was wet and shipped daily many carloads of liquor into Georgia, which at that time had local option.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET

RALLIES AFTER DECLINE NEW ORLEANS MARKE!

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 14.—(P)—
With the farm board's plan to eliminate one-third of the growing crop practically rejected, the cotton market lapsed into rather a slower measure today. Prices fluctuated fairly but developed no special trend. Following a decline of 14 to 15 points at the start, due to very disappointing Liverpool cables, prices rallied 17 points on shorts covering, a favorable stock market and fears that the tropical storm may reach the belt. After mid-session, however, the rally was mostly lost, prices easing off 12 points from the highs on good weather in the belt and selling by scalpers. Hester's weekly statistics were rather bullish. After ruling decidedly narrow in the late trading the market rallied 9 to 10 points at the end on shorts covering and the close was steady, the general market showing net declines for the day of of 4 to 6 points. Railroads were lagged in the forward movement but this was not surprising in view of the efforts of praminent operators being concentrated on the industrial department. One of the most gratifying developments was the report that public interest was appearing in the market for the first time in weeks, indicating that the magnetism of higher prices is once again attracting the small investor and trader.

Struck by Lightning
VALDOSTA, Ga., Aug. 14.—
While the jury in the Homer Padgett case has been tied up in seclusion for 18 days, startling things have been happening at the home of one of its members.

A. J. Bartlett, who operates a poultry farm near Five Points, just north of the city limits, will be interested to learn when his jury duty is over that an electrical bolt struck at his place during the week. A number of chickens were electrocuted and the chain which held a dog to his kennel was scattered adog to his kennel was scattered about, link by link. The bolt entered the residence and tore up the meter and fuse, striking the box while Mrs. Bartlett was within three or four feet of it. Beyond the stock Mrs. Bartlett sustained no injuries, and fortunately the bolt did not start a fire.

Congressman Dubs Board Plan On Cotton 'Frenzied Suggestion'

NEWNAN, Ga., Aug. 14.—Congressman W. C. Wright, of the fourth district, branded the proposal of the federal farm board for destruction of one-third of the 1931 cotton crop as a "frenzied suggestion wholly impracticable," in an interview at his home here today.

"A large part of our population is hungry and starving, half clad and almost naked. Instead of destroying our cotton, why not give it to these unfortunate people?" Congressman Wright asked. "The stupidity and self-ishness of the republican administration has caused it to overlook fundamentals and resort to expediencies and nostrums."

Congressman Wright's views of the proposal follow:

"Notwithstanding the egregious blunders made by the federal farm board, and the fact that it has operated by the act creating it, notably by practically, through its agencies, entering direct competition to those engaged therein, it is, perhaps, fair to say that since the board came into existence it has faced political and economic conditions producing a business depression unparalleled in history; but it should not be overlooked that when conditions are good and prices are fair, there would seem to be no need for such an agency as the farm board, and periods of depression and low ble. It is to be sincerely hoped none pression unparameter it should not be overlooked that when conditions are good and prices are fair, there would seem to be no need for such an agency as the farm board, and periods of depression and low prices for farm products are the only justification, if any, for the existence of such an agency.

"The net result of the manner in which the board has functioned being to disorganize and disrupt agricultural conditions and bring itself into disregularity. conditions and bring itself into disre-pute largely with our agricultural and business interests, it now comes for-ward with the monstrous proposition of urging that the cotton growers throughout the entire belt destroy one-third of the present crop and in con-sideration of such a drastic and fool-ish performance, nelders itself to perish performance, pledges itself to permit no sales by the Cotton Stabilization Corporation of its present holdings of 1,300,000 bales before July 31,

Frenzied Suggestion.

"The frenzied suggestion of the board that one-third of the present crop be deliberately destroyed is wholly impracticable for many reasons. In the first place, the toiling farm masses of the cotton belt who have produced the present crop by economy, hard work, deprivation and sacrifice, will not heed the advice of the board and employ their further time and labor in the destruction of that they have already labored so hard to produce.

JOHN N. BRAY PASSES IN VALDOSTA HOSPITAL

early Friday morning at a local hospital following an illness of only a few days.

Mr. Bray was 70 years of age, and only a few weeks ago lost his wife since which time he has been rapidly declining.

John N. Bray was one of the few men in this section successful in operating a saw urfill business. Starting life as a poor boy he worked hards asved his money and purchased a saw mill with which he made monay. This husiness expanded until the J. N. Bray Lumber Company, for many years has been one of the largest in Georgia, at times operating plants in Valdosta and elsewhere.

In the growth and development of Valdosta, as well as the county, Mr. Bray has been a powerful though silent factor. In business he stuck to his line, because he knew timber, his only deviation being as a large stockholder in the First National, bank, of which institution he has for many years been an influential director.

Mr. Bray is survived by four daughters, Mrs. C. C. Giddens, Mrs. H. W. Peeples, Miss Clair Bray and Mrs. B. M. Mackay, and two sons, C. W. Bray and Orvis Bray, all of this city. There are also two brothers, F. N. Bray, of Ceeil, and Lewis Bray, of Valdosta. Besides these there are a large number of grandchildren.

The functal services will be conducted by Rev. J. P. Dell, of the First Methodist church, of which the deceased was a member, and interment.

Methodist church, of which the de-ceased was a member, and interment will be in Mount Zion cemetery, where Mrs. Bray was recently laid to rest. Funeral arrangements are in charge of John Sineath.

time next month, it was announced here Friday by Chancellor C. M. Snelling.

The two buildings are being built from private funds. One building will be erected for the university law school at a cost of about $100,000. It will be named for Harold Hirsch, Atlanta lawyer, prominent and active alumnus of the university, who took a leading part in the campaign among alumni to raise the funds for the building.

The other building, a men's dormitory, will be named for Charles M. Brown, a son of Georgia's Civil War governor, Joseph E. Brown. The money will be borrowed from the Brown student loan fund and the university will pay the regular interest to the fund which now amounts to more than $300,000. Only the interest of the corpus of the fund may be loaned to students.

The personnel of the two committees includes Hughes Spalding, Harrison Jones, Atlanta; John Sibley, Atlanta; Judge W. H. Barrett. Augusta; G. E. Maddox, Rome; Dean H. N. Edmunds, of the law school; Chancellor C. M. Snelling, Howell C. Erwin and Judge Thomas F. Green, all of Athens; Judge Samuel H. Sibley and C. M. Brown, Marietta.

The dormitory will accommodate 140 students. The law building will be three stories high, and the top floor' will be used for a library to be named for the late Judge Alex King, of Atlanta.

7259. Printed silk in brown and white is pictured here, with facings on collar, cuffs and the vestee of white crepe. The waist portions simulate a long packet in their shaping. Plaits at the side, lend pleasing fullness. The sleeve is a fitted model, and is finished with a small upturned cuff. The collar is turned back on the fronts in revers fashion outlining the vestee with its V neck.

Designed in five sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size will require 3.7-8 yards of 39-inch material and 2-3 yard of contrasting material for collar, vestee, bow and cuffs if made as shown in the large view. If made entirely of one material 43-8 yards will be required. To finish with braid, bias binding or piping will require 7.3-4 yards.

Money Measures a Man's Morals When He Is Getting It and Measures His Taste When He

Is it vulgar to talk about money? It all depends on who you are and where you are. Most of us talk about money because we are reminded of it by every move we make. Materially speaking, everything we have and everything we give, everything we do and everywhere we go, depends on money. If we are the bread winners of the family we think about money because the family looks to us for support. If we are not the breadwinners we think about it because we look to others for support. It is money that determines our dependence or our independence.

If we are rich and speak of our riches to the poor man, speak in such a way that he may interpret it as bragging, that is vulgar. If we are poor and speak in terms of our poverty to the rich man, speak in such a way that he may interpret it as begging, that is vulgar. But there is no reason why talk of money, confined to its proper sphere, should be counted bad taste.

For example, a newly married woman went to a picnic the other day and misplaced her purse. Friends helping her to find it asked her if she had much in it.
"Yes," was the quick response. "I had a whole week in it." That reply made in one group might have referred to a week's salary.
In some other it might have been unfintelligible; but made to a group of women who were in like financial circumstances it was perfectly clear that she meant a week's housekeeping allowance.

Talk about money is not vulgar but improper use of it is. Nothing was ever said with more truth than "Money takes a man's measure." It measures him coming and going. It measures his morals when he is getting it, and it measures his taste when he is spending it. It measures his charity when he is sharing it and it measures his judgment when he is investing it.

Because of the enormous influence and power of money in our lives it is awfully hard to get the right slant on it. Yet some people do.

I know the proverbial rich man, one of those who will always be rich because he is wise, and conscientious, and clever with his money. He has worked hard to amass his fortune and he has kept his giving commensurate with his gainings. There is where the rich man stubs his toe. So seldom has he the wisdom to see the necessity for that practise. This man is a great influence for good in his community, because he did see it. How does he spend his money? For everything and everybody. He lives in comparative luxury. He has, at one time or another, supported many branches of a large family, feeding, clothing, educating the young until they have had opportunity to become self-supporting. His name heads the list of contributors to every good work. But he not only gives his money. He knows that is not enough. He gives his time, and his thought, and himself. Says he, "I don't care anything about money. I work because I love to work and I have been fortunate in making it yield me good returns." But he adds, "It is a great satisfaction to be able to answer the calls that come for help, calls that can only be answered with money. I enjoy thinking of the young people whom I have been able to educate. Education was denied me but my children and my nephews and nieces have had the best advantages." I know the proverbial rich man, one of those who will always be rich

Isn't that fine? He is not like the stingy man who thinks of nothing but money. He is not like the man in debt who thinks too little about money. He is not like the poor man who snarls at money nor yet like the rich man who thinks money is all of life. He has put it in its proper place. In consequence, money has put him in his proper place. It will do the same for you and me.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Write From Berlin

Another of the series of articles on conditions abroad by Julian Harris, news director of The Constitution, will appear in The Constitution tomorrow. The significance of Secretary of State Stimson's recent Berlin visit during the exciting days of the German crisis, and details of incidents which led to the seizure of East Greenland by Norway are vividly described by Mr. Harris. Mrs. Julia Collier Harris continues her travel notes with an entertaining story of the Graf Zeppelin's return to Germany after circling the North Pole.

Well, he must be. Look what he did to Ray Steele. And then wait a moment and look what Ray Steele did to him, Frank Speer has but recently graduated from the wrestling school at New York and is out getting what Promoters recently put him in against Ray Steele (Petel Sauer to you) in a Washington ring. Now Steele is one of the toughest in the business. Only "Thees Jeem" Londos is able to do anything with him. And that isn't much.

Coach W. A. Alexander, who was Speer's coach in football at Georgia Tech, told the story yesterday. He had heard it from a man who saw the match.

"When they came out in the ring," Coach Alex said, "Speer had his arm half out. When he got in close he suddenly shot it out and caught Steele on the jaw with the heel of his hand. (Editor's Note-There are no wrestlers, except Speer, who

"This dazed Steele for about 10 minutes." Coach Alex reported, "and Speer went after him. He mauled Steele all around but couldn't pin him. "As soon as Steele got his bearings back he caught Speer in an airplane spin, spun him around about 10 times and then let him go. All of Speer's 220 pounds seemed to spread out on the mat at once. And he stayed Coach Alex thinks that Speer should go far in the game. A defeat at the hands of Steele was not surprising. Speer needs a year or so of work. He should then be near the top. He ought to pack them in if promoters were able to land him for an Atlanta appearance.

NOTHING? IT IS TO LAUGH!

There seems to be no end of inventing going on in most any field of endeavor one may look at. And I wonder, sometimes, how red must be the face of the ghost of the old gentleman who was head of the government bureau of inventions in the 60's and who asked that the bureau be closed because there was nothing else left to invent?

The football coaches are turning more and more to inventions. Most of them are small ones and most of them have to do with some slight imprvement in foot-

Changes in equipment have been steady, of course, since the game was started. We came slowly through the period when a long head of hair served for a headgear and when all beaks, Moore Wins Cup or noses, were protected by a guard of heavy rubber.

The pants were padded very little to begin with, having a few lumpy wads of cotton sewed in here and there. From that we came on down to the modern pads of sponge rubber and other lightweight material,

The good year 1931 finds more changes. The Georgia Tech football pants, for instance, include an invention Clay and Coach Alexander.

One of the problems with the pants has been the binding which the elastic about the knee brought on. Last season an elastic wedge was made in the back of the pants at the knee. This helped some, but not enough.

This season the Georgia Tech football pants will entirely eliminate the evil. A half moon was cut out at the back. The elastic starts at either side of it. This affords free-wheeling at the knee, so to speak. And also eliminates binding.

Tech coaches are also experimenting with a shock-absorbing headgear, one with a sort of elastic harness in the top. It is very much like the one now in use except that it is elastic instead of non-resilient. And the headgear is a bit higher.

EVOLUTION AS IS EVOLUTION.

The ball itself has come in for no few changes. The oldtime method was to pump it up with a bike pump, tie the tube up with string and stuff it back under the cover.

Then came the valve in the tube. Later there was valve in the ball with no need to worry about the

The latest invention, which will be seen in a few of the footballs used this fall, is a lullu, as the boys say. The tube appears in the lacing, cut off flush with the laces.

In this is inserted a small metal tube which fits into the pump. The valve in the tube is so arranged that the ball will not hold more than the required 13 pounds. This will give uniformity to the ball. Some teams pump it up with 20 or 25 pounds of pressure. Others have 11 or 12.

The new ball will be in general use in 1932. A few will be sent out this fall for inspection.

Jones, Errie Ball, Hudson and Yates To Play at Highlands.

HIGHLANDS. N. C., Aug. 14.—
Bobby Jones. Errie Ball, Charlie Yates Jr. and Scott Hudson Jr., four outstanding Atlanta golfers, completed a brief practice session this afternoon in preparation for an exhibition match at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon on the Highlands course. In the exhibition foursome, Jones and Hudson are paired together against Yates and Ball, the youngest of the East Lake golfers. The match has been "brewing" for some time and since Jones came to Highlands, two weeks ago, arrangements were completed for Saturday's affair.

BENEFIT MATCH.

The match, a climax to a two-week vacation for Jones, will be a benefit affair and the proceeds will go into a fund to equip the Scott Hudson library at the Highlands club.

Bobby has played several rounds during his stay here, but his game Thursday and Friday was far better than others of the week.

Errie Ball, 19-year-old assistant East Lake professional, arrived this afternoon in time for a brief round of practice. Ball recently won the Southeastern Professional Golfers' Association championship tournament

YATES GOES WELL.

Yates arrived Thursday and in his practice rounds Friday he was hitting them straight down the fairway with plenty of distance. Yates won the Georgia amateur championship July 11 on the Sea Island Beach course, but failed to qualify for the national amateur play July 28 at East Lake by one stroke. Yates started on his pathway to victory late in June when he eliminated Emmett Spicer, defending champion, in the southern amateur meet at Chattanooga. In the Georgia tourney he defeated Dave Black, defending champion, in the quarter-finals and came back with a semi-final victory over Charlie Black Hudson was captain of the 1931 Georgia Tech linksmen and has been playing unusually good golf during his vacation here. Hudson did not play so well early in the summer, in the national collegiate and the southern amateur tournaments, but by steady practice he is "on his game now.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—(UP)—New York's Giants strengthened their 'grip on second place in the National league today by defeating Pittsburgh, 2 to 1, while the Chicago Cubs were routed, 14 to 4, by the Philadelphia Phillies. The Giants now lead the Cubs by one full game.

Jim Mooney, young pitcher recently recalled from Bridgeport in the Eastern league, and Mel Ott were the big factors in the Giants' victory. Mooney, making his debut as a major leaguer, allowed the Pirates but nine hits, while Ott hit his fifth home run in three days to provide the New Yorkers with their winning margin.

The Crackers do not think they can do as well at night. One thing is sure. They cannot look any worse in the daytime.

TWO ARE BEST.

In returning to the two-nights-per-week plan, the Cracker heads made it plain that they were still in favor of night baseball and that in the event abnormally hot weather returned the full schedule of night games would be returned to. This, however, is doubtful. The two games per week plan is the better one.

The Crackers remained in a tie with Chattanooga for fourth place. The defeat Friday night saw them slip a bit more in their hunt for third or second place.

Red Barron returned to the Cracker lineup Friday night and performed well in the outfield, making four hard catches. Barron took the place left vacant by Poco Taitt, who went to the Phillies in a deal. Hal Lee, who is to report here Monday, comes in the deal. JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 14.—Jackson's classy sandlot téam, which has been host to the regional baseball tournament here, today won'the championship itself by defeating Mobile.

Jackson yesterday eliminated the favored Tampa, Fla., team, and Mobile nosed out the bunch from Albany, Georgia champious.

James Hitt, pitching for Jackson, limited Mobile to seven hits and struck out seven men. The Jackson team boasts a great pair of young pitchers in Hitt and "Peewee" Armstrong, who gave Tampa only four hits in 14 innings yesterday.

ROY GETS WATCH.

The Duval Jewelry Company presented Carlyle with a handsome wrist watch before the game, the watch being to him for hitting the first five home runs of the season over the new right-field fence.

Messenger was the losing pitcher in the Friday game. He started, after being out with illness for two weeks, and was ineffective. Two runs were tallied in one inning.

Johnny Carithers, the young southpay, followed him. He was touched for three more runs. Carithers gave way to a pinch-hitter in the seventh. He was relieved by Kiefer.

more. In fact, Beverly is just about as stout a test of golf as anyone would want to wrestle with, and the better golfers should have a good chance to beat lesser rivals, which is Just as it should be.

In the first place, the Beverly course is scenically attractive, with an array of maples and oaks, which catch the eye. It must be admitted that few maples or oaks are scenically attractive, once you have driven into them and have to get out again. But the winner of this next amateur isn't going to spend much time playing out of stately groves. He will have to spend most of his time on the fairway.

ble Default Ruled.

have to spend most of his time on the In the second place there is nothing flat about Beverly. It is unusually rolling and dipping, with valleys and plateaus. And above all else, Beverly has its own watering system, which prevents any baked out fairway. The ball gets no great run along the softened turf, which makes its 6,700 yards seem to be 7,000 or more.

Beverly has a touch of variety apart from the average course. The average course has four one-shot holes and two or three three-shotters beyond 500 yards. Beverly has five one-shot holes and five par 5 holes, which swing out beyond 500 yards. Two or three of these extend beyond 540 or 550. And the big slasher who wants to get home the big slasher who wants to get home in two prodigious swipes gets all set and then suddenly remembers there are trees and woodlands in addition to the suddenly shade and the suddenly state of the same which make him also consider are trees and woodlands in addition to traps, which make him also consider the matter of direction. Distance is a great factor, but only when hooked with direction. Nothing much is gained in hitting the ball 260 yards if you have to chip your next one out backwards.

That means you have picked up a total of 250 yards in two blows, which any duffer can beat if he doesn't whiff.

The short holes are extremely good, and again most of them call for distance as well as control. The third hole is the first short hole and this measures around 220 yards. The sixth hole is another and here you stand on an elevated tee and look out and down upon a green some 190 yards away, tucked into a circle of traps and trouble, trouble.

The 11th hole is only a bit more than 100 yards, but the green is small and it is about as slippery as a tank full of cels. If you don't get your pitch close you will face the cheerful possibility or probability of three putts. This green not only slopes but it slides, slants and at times seems to wiggle and weave. It isn't nearly as easy as it looks to be.

There are five two-shot holes at Beverly, a number of excellent dogley holes, which demand control of the ball. But most of them also demand power. If the ball is only half hit is is almost impossible to reach the green in par figures.

Beverly is one of the best courses, Beverly is one of the best courses, one of the most exacting layouts, that any championship has known. This goes from the first tee to the home hole where the long hitter who is one down has his chance to square the match. This is a par five hole but, unless against the wind, the long-range entries can get home in two ange entries can get home in two

But these blows must keep to the line. The far-hitting Cyril Tolley lost his match in the western on this hole. He was all square coming here and was hole high in two big shots. But his second was in trouble so he lost the hole to a par 5. It isn't often that any inland course so well combines the need of both distance and direction as Beverly does.

distance and direction as Beverly does.

Although there is a picked field of 150 amateurs ready for the first medal test, I believe a par of 78's will get in comfortably when it comes to the 36-hole qualifying march. This means a 156. If there is much wind this figure can be lifted, for when you have to be both fairly strong and straight, the nerve pressure begins to count.

straight, the nerve pressure begins to count.

There are no loafing spots on this course, no easy going holes where one can get careless and get away with it. Yet there is nothing unfair about it, nothing on the tricky side. And the fact that even a hot, sum-cooked summer hasn't baked out its well-watered greens and fairways will make a tremendous difference. It will mean that the player will have to earn what he gets and there will be no 70 and 90-yard rolls after the ball has struck. Beverly is hard, interesting, varied and attractive. That is all anyone can ask for any championship. And with the evenly matched field waiting for the start on August 31, it should see more close and interesting matches than any championship has known in years.

By Orlo Robertson, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Keno, the second choice in the wagering, won the opening heat in the good time of 2:04 1-4, but he could not stand the pace in the second mile as McMahon drove Calumet Butler to a new mark of 2:03 1-4 for the colt. The Calumet colt's previous best time was 2:04 1-2, made as a 2-year-old last year. He trotted the last mile in the slowest time of the race, x 2:05 1-4.

Nedda Guy, quoted at 4 to 5 in the auction system of betting, was the favorite to sweep to a straight victory, but the filly never was an important factor. She finished fifth in the first heat and, although showing signs of lameness at the start of the second mile, trotted a game race to land in second place. She was unable to appear for the deciding mile.

A year ago Keno was not considered good enough to race on the Grand Circuit, but today he set a crowd of 10,000 shouting as he won the initial heat. That was his best race, however, as he was a tired horse in third place back of Calumet Butler and Nedda Guy in the former's second-heat triumph. Evidently the 15-minute rest put new life in him, however, as he came back to all but beat Calumet Butler in the final test.

The giant stegosaurus had no intention of giving up the battle. Still shrieking in rage and pain, it now glided to the ground beyond Gridley and the warrior. Immediately it turned to renew the attack. This time it came upon its four feet. Gridley saw it was likely to prove as great an enemy upon the ground as it had been in the air. For considering its tremendous bulk, it moved with great agility and speed. BUSINESS SERVICE EMPLOYMENT

As Gridley stood facing the returning creature the warrior leaped to his side crying: "Get on that side of him and I will attack him on this. Keep out of the way of his tail. Use your spear. You cannot frighten him way by making a noise." The American leaped quickly to one side, obeying the suggestion and the warrior took his place upon the opposite side of the approaching engine of destruction. Before Jason could fire or the warrior cast his spear the stegosaurus stumbled and fell.

Curiously, the man looked the dead beast over and when he saw the holes in it he looked at Jason with awe. "Who are you," he asked, "and what are you doing in Zoram?" And now it was Gridley's turn to be astonished. "Am I in Zoram?" he exclaimed. "Are you one of the men of Zoram?" The warrior answered "Yes." "Then tell me," The warrior answered "Yes." "Then tell me," cried Jason, "do you know Jana, the Red Flower of Zoram?" The warrior's eyes widened in surprise. "What do you know of the Red Flower, stranger?" ROOMS AND BOARD

TRAFFIC CONTROL CHANGE APPROVED

Revision of the synchronized traffic control system of Atlanta by install-ing a ripple system to expedite movement and to minimize interrup movement and to minimize interruptions at street intersections was approved Friday by Mayor James L. Key's special traffic commission.

A. L. Belle Isle, chairman of the signals and markings committee of the commission, was authorized with the assistance of Pat Hendricks, city electrician, to install a master control at Five Points. If the plan is found to expedite movement of traffic it will be extended to include all lights used in the central business area.

The commission also commended the police department for work of the plainelothes squad in nabbing traffic law violators.

First installation of the ripple system will include the following intersections: Five Points, Edgewood and

Toomer and Ulmer Play for Title Today

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 14.—(P) Jack Toomer and Al C. Ulmer, of Jocksonville, Fla., will meet here to-morrow in the 36-hole finals for the championship in the annual Biltmore Ferest Country Club invitation tour-

Ferest Country Club invitation tournament.

Today Toomer made a sensational rally against Joe Adams, of Biltmore Forest, to win on the twenty-first hole, I up, while Ulmer downed G. W. Spencer, of Sanford, Fla., easily, 8 and 6.

Ulmer was 6 up on Spencer at the turn and experienced little difficulty in winning. The Sanford golfer was in all sorts of trouble from the tees and his short game fell far short of yesterday's performance when he defeated the defending champion, Carl Dann Jr., on the 18th hole.

after a long illness.

The fourteenth judicial district comprises the counties of Franklin, Scott, Woodford and Bourbon. Mr. Whitley lived at Paris. His widow and a daughter survive.

Cases prosecuted by Whitley included the famed text book charges of 1920 which resulted in indictment of Governor Flem D. Sampson and several members of the state text book commission. The governor was acquitted by peremptory instructions and charges against the commissioners were dismissed. They were accused of receiving gifts from publishers.

Mr. Whitley was a native of Pantego, N. C., and a graduate of Transylvania College, Lexington. Elected commonwealth's attorney in 1927, he served in circuit courts presided over by the late Ben G. Williams, who died several months ago.
